

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF MICHIGAN
NORTHERN DIVISION

KENNETH WHITE #148245,

Petitioner,

v.

Case No. 2:05-cv-78
HON. RICHARD ALAN ENSLEN

TERRY SHERMAN,

Respondent.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

Petitioner Kenneth White filed this petition for writ of habeas corpus challenging the validity of his parole revocation, as well as the subsequent denial of parole. Petitioner contends that he was falsely accused of committing first-degree criminal sexual conduct. The charge was dropped on December 18, 2001, for insufficient evidence. Petitioner subsequently received a parole revocation hearing on January 30, 2002. During the hearing, a one page medical document regarding Petitioner's three and a half year old niece was passed among Petitioner's attorney, the parole board member present, and the prosecuting attorney. Because none of the parties could interpret the medical symbols and shorthand, Petitioner's attorney requested a postponement of the hearing. On March 4, 2002, the formal hearing took place, during which Petitioner's attorney informed him that she had spoken to the medical doctor concerning Petitioner's niece, but that he refused to testify or to sign an affidavit "stating what the medical [report] said in plain [E]nglish." Parole Board Member Wayne M. Grout found Petitioner guilty of committing the crime of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, stating that Petitioner's "story" about his half-sister attempting to frame him was preposterous. Petitioner was given a 24-month continuance.

Petitioner states that he repeatedly wrote to the parole board, requesting a rehearing on the basis that his hearing was conducted with unfair prejudice. However, Petitioner's requests were repeatedly denied. The Parole Board Chairman, Mr. Steven Marshski, stated that the medical document did state that a molestation had occurred. Petitioner states that he had never seen the second page of the medical report and did not know that it even existed prior to his communications with Marshski. Petitioner further claims that the medical report did not state that his niece was sexually molested. On July 30, 2003, Petitioner had an interview with newly appointed Parole Board Chairman John Rubitchum. When Petitioner was asked how he had violated his parole, he responded that his sister had tried to frame him. Petitioner explained the history of the case and showed Rubichum page 2 of the medical report, which had been improperly withheld from Petitioner at the revocation hearing. Upon reviewing the document, Rubichum stated that he could not really read it, and that it was not necessary for him to do so because Petitioner's case had been dismissed by the court. Petitioner then told Rubichum that he needed to be by his daughter's bedside because she was dying of AIDS. Thirty days later, Petitioner was given a 24-month continuance. Petitioner states that his daughter died during this time, as did Petitioner's mother, which caused Petitioner to become suicidal.

Petitioner filed a state petition for habeas corpus relief in the 32nd Judicial Circuit Court on February 8, 2005, which was denied on February 23, 2005. Petitioner then filed an appeal of this order in the "3rd Judicial Circuit Court" on March 9, 2005, which was also denied. It does not appear that Petitioner filed any appeal with either the Michigan Court of Appeals or the Michigan Supreme Court.

Promptly after the filing of a petition for habeas corpus, the court must undertake a preliminary review of the petition to determine whether “it plainly appears from the face of the petition and any exhibits annexed to it that the petitioner is not entitled to relief in the district court.” Rule 4, RULES GOVERNING § 2254 CASES; see 28 U.S.C. § 2243. If so, the petition must be summarily dismissed. Rule 4; see Allen v Perini, 424 F.2d 134, 141 (6th Cir.), cert. denied, 400 U.S. 906 (1970) (district court has the duty to “screen out” petitions that lack merit on their face). After undertaking the review required by Rule 4, the undersigned recommends that Petitioner’s application for habeas corpus relief be dismissed with prejudice.

In the opinion of the undersigned, Petitioner’s application is barred by the one-year period of limitation provided in 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1), which was enacted on April 24, 1996, as part of the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act , PUB. L. NO. 104-132, 110 STAT. 1214 (AEDPA). The one-year period of limitation provided in § 2244(d)(1) is new, as there previously was no defined period of limitation for habeas actions.¹ Section 2244(d)(1) provides:

(1) A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to an application for a writ of habeas corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The limitation period shall run from the latest ofS

(A) the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

¹Previously, the only time limit was provided in Rule 9 of the Rules Governing § 2254 Cases, which allows dismissal of a petition if it appears that the state has been prejudiced in its ability to respond to the petition by delay in filing unless the petitioner showed that the petition was based on grounds that he could not have known before the circumstances prejudicial to the state occurred.

(B) the date on which the impediment to filing an application created by State action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

(C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if the right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or

(D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1). The running of the period of limitation is tolled when “a properly filed application for State post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent judgment or claim is pending.” 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2).

In this case, § 2244(d)(1)(A) provides the period of limitation. The other subsections do not apply to the grounds that Petitioner has raised. Under § 2244(d)(1)(A), the one-year limitation period runs from “the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review.” According to Petitioner’s application, his parole was revoked on March 4, 2002. Petitioner took no action to challenge this revocation until he filed a state habeas corpus petition, nearly three years later on February 8, 2005. Petitioner then claims that he filed an appeal of the denial of state habeas corpus relief in the 3rd Judicial Circuit Court on March 9, 2005. Finally, Petitioner filed his federal habeas corpus petition in this court on April 1, 2005. Obviously, Petitioner took no action for more than one year after the time for direct review expired. Thus, his application is time-barred.

In summary, the undersigned concludes that Petitioner's claims are barred by the applicable statute of limitations and therefore recommends that this Court dismiss the petition with prejudice.

The Court of Appeals has suggested that a habeas petitioner is entitled to notice and an adequate opportunity to be heard before dismissal of his petition on statute of limitations grounds. See Scott v. Collins, 286 F.3d 923, 930 (6th Cir. 2002). This report and recommendation shall serve as notice that the District Court may dismiss Petitioner's application for habeas corpus relief as time-barred. Furthermore, Petitioner's ability to file objections to this report and recommendation constitutes his opportunity to be heard by the District Judge.

In addition, if Petitioner should choose to appeal this action, I recommend that a certificate of appealability be denied as to each issue raised by Petitioner in this application for habeas corpus relief. Under 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2), the court must determine whether a certificate of appealability should be granted. A certificate should issue if Petitioner has demonstrated a "substantial showing of a denial of a constitutional right." 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). A dismissal of Petitioner's action under Rule 4 of the Rules Governing § 2254 Cases is a determination that the habeas action, on its face, lacks sufficient merit to warrant service. It would be highly unlikely for this court to grant a certificate, thus indicating to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals that an issue merits review, if the court has already determined that the action is so lacking in merit that service is not warranted. See Love v. Butler, 952 F.2d 10 (1st Cir. 1991) (it is "somewhat anomalous" for the court to summarily dismiss under Rule 4 and grant a certificate); Hendricks v. Vasquez, 908 F.2d 490 (9th Cir. 1990) (requiring reversal where court summarily dismissed under Rule 4 but granted certificate); Dory v. Commissioner of Correction of the State of New York, 865 F.2d 44, 46 (2d Cir.

1989) (it was “intrinsically contradictory” to grant a certificate when habeas action does not warrant service under Rule 4); Williams v. Kullman, 722 F.2d 1048, 1050 n.1 (2d Cir. 1983) (issuing certificate would be inconsistent with a summary dismissal).

The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals has disapproved issuance of blanket denials of a certificate of appealability. Murphy v. Ohio, 263 F.3d 466 (6th Cir. Aug. 27, 2001). Rather, the district court must “engage in a reasoned assessment of each claim” to determine whether a certificate is warranted. Id. Each issue must be considered under the standards set forth by the Supreme Court in Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473 (2000). Murphy v. Ohio, 263 F.3d 466 (6th Cir. Aug. 27, 2001). Consequently, the undersigned has examined each of Petitioner’s claims under the Slack standard.

The undersigned recommends that the court deny Petitioner’s application on procedural grounds that it is barred by the statute of limitations. Under Slack, 529 U.S. at 484, when a habeas petition is denied on procedural grounds, a certificate of appealability may issue only “when the prisoner shows, at least, [1] that jurists of reason would find it debatable whether the petition states a valid claim of the denial of a constitutional right and [2] that jurists of reason would find it debatable whether the district court was correct in its procedural ruling.” Both showings must be made to warrant the grant of a certificate. Id. The undersigned concludes that reasonable jurists could not debate that each of Petitioner’s claims are properly dismissed on the procedural grounds that it is barred by the statute of limitations. “Where a plain procedural bar is present and the district court is correct to invoke it to dispose of the case, a reasonable jurist could not conclude either that the district court erred in dismissing the petition or that the petitioner should be allowed to proceed further.” Id. Therefore, the undersigned recommends that the court deny Petitioner a certificate of appealability.

NOTICE TO PARTIES: Objections to this Report and Recommendation must be served on opposing parties and filed with the Clerk of the Court within ten (10) days of receipt of this Report and Recommendation. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(C); Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b); W.D. Mich. LCivR 72.3(b). Failure to file timely objections constitutes a waiver of any further right to appeal. United States v. Walters, 638 F.2d 947 (6th Cir. 1981). See also Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140 (1985).
